FROM THE PUBLISHER

Emma Dayhuff kicked off the Jazz fest at The Ateliers in Union Pier Friday night. It was the perfect start to a jazzy weekend. As the fans relaxed and enjoyed the venue, they lined up for a massage by Serenity Now and a selection of wines provided by Promeny Olive and Wine. It was a delightful evening. With Ateliers being just a short walk to Frankie's, the party moved on there, where they packed them in to hear Meagan McNeal. The Jazz Fest was off and running!

The weather put a damper during Saturday's events. The curtains closed in Lions Park, when there was no hope for a break with the weather. A remarkable line-up of jazz was not going to happen; however, there were more indoor venues, and the music carried on. David's Deli, Bentwood, Roma Pizza and Brewster's rocked on into the night. The iRock Jazz Festival brought a huge number of visitors to town.

There was a welcome influx of business for the shops and restaurants. New Buffalo was discovered by many folks. Who can resist the hospitable atmosphere of our town, the gateway to Harbor Country? Rain and cold may have stopped the show outside, but the results of iRock Jazz Fest were significant and positive for our new days and the new ways of New Buffalo.

For those of you who get the digital edition of New Buffalo Times, I want to remind you of the first Classic Car Cruise-in on Whittaker Street this Wednesday night, June 3. It will repeat the first Wednesday of every month until October. Come on down and enjoy some fun and music. It's free, and pet- and family-friendly.

Have fun,

as duck families are trying to cross the highways, especially around the Galien River area.
They seem to be crossing Red Arrow

LINDA HENDERSON IN NEW BUFFALO

City crews install the beach walk in anticipation of sunny skies.

The New Buffalo Saving Bank team shredded over 6,600 LBS of paper and served close to 100 customers at the drive-up shredding truck on a rainy Saturday morning. Assisting customers were Mary Stella, Barry Griffin and Karen Gear.

Rios was the first new food vendor for this season at the New Buffalo beach. While the concession stand is undergoing upgrades different vendors will serve the beach-goers.

Poppy rattles the Acorn

WORDS AND PHOTOS BY LAWRENCE VON EBELER

Comedian and producer Poppy Champlin blew away all pretenses about being gay in 2015, and specifically for women. Saturday night, she laughed, cried, bellowed and sang her way through some pretty dicey dialog. Every once in a while she'd stop and say to the audience, "Am I going too far with this?" And sometimes she was. This woman can belt out songs with a great stage voice, is a comedian and dancer, a magician, contortionist, and actress. She is bursting with creativity in her humor and in her speech. The thing about Champlin is that you and the entire audience fall in love with her in a matter of minutes.

And all that jazz

THERESE DONNELLY IN UNION PIER

The iRock Jazz Festival kicked off its musical festival in Harbor Country with a roving concert in Union Pier Friday night. Emma Dayhuff and her band performed at Ateliers, switching off with Meagan McNeal who was set up across the way at Frankie's. Music lovers had the chance to go back and forth between the two venues. Saturday's rainy weather deterred some from attending the outdoor events at Lions Park, but several area restaurants hosted indoor concerts.
